When it comes to the use of the Internet as a medium for transactions, there are several factors that can influence the adoption of this technology. One of the main factors is the security of the transactions. Users need to feel confident that their transactions are safe and secure.

Another factor is the ease of use of the Internet. If using the Internet is too complicated, users may not be interested in using it for transactions. Therefore, it is important to create user-friendly interfaces that make it easy for users to carry out their transactions.

Finally, the availability of electronic money (e-money) is also an important factor. If there is no e-money available, users will not be able to carry out their transactions through the Internet. Therefore, it is important to promote the use of e-money and create a safe and secure environment for its use.
