other positions in association football

A midfielder is an outfield position in association football.[1] Midfie lders 💵 may play an exclusively defensive role, breaking up attacks, an d are in that case known as defensive midfielders. As central 💵 midfiel ders often go across boundaries, with mobility and passing ability, they are oft en referred to as deep-lying midfielders, play-makers, box-to-box 💵 mid fielders, or holding midfielders. There are also attacking midfielders with limi ted defensive assignments.

The size of midfield units on a team 💵 and their assigned role s depend on what formation is used; the unit of these players on the pitch is co mmonly 💵 referred to as the midfield. Its name derives from the fact th at midfield units typically make up the in-between units 💵 to the defen sive units and forward units of a formation. Managers frequently assign one or more midfielders to disrupt the oppos ing 💵 team#39;s attacks, while others may be tasked with creating goal s, or have equal responsibilities between attack and defence. Midfielders are &# 128181; the players who typically travel the greatest distance during a match.

Midfielders arguably have the most possession during a game, 💵 and thus they are some of the fittest players on the pitch.[3] Midfielders are often ass igned the task of assisting 💵 forwards to create scoring opportunities.
